Deutschland im Herbst. Tr. of Germany in Autumn. (1978). Foreign Films—Germany. Drama. Color and B&W. 126 mins. (German, Subtitled: English). Video Released May 1994. Rainer Werner Fassbinder, Liselotte Eder, Armin Meier, Angela Winkler, Heinz Bennett, Helmut Griem. Directed by Rainer Werner Fassbinder, Alf Brustellin, Alexander Kluge, Edgar Reitz, Katja Rupe, Hans Peter Cloos, Volker Schlondorff, Bernard Sinkel. Contribution by Peter Steinbach, Heinrich Böll. One of the landmark works of the New German Cinema, Germany in Autumn was an unprecedented collective response by Germany's leading directors & writers to the climate of political terrorism in their country during the late 1970's. Throughout the decade, the Red Army Faction - an outgrowth of the notorious Baader-Meinhof Group - had waged a campaign of terror against those in power, & the government's escalating efforts to root out the terrorists had resulted in a virtual state of siege by the Autumn of 1977. Here is an immediate, impassioned response to the events of that Autumn: the RAF kidnapping & murder of industrialist Hans-Martin Schleyer, & the subsequent, highly suspicious deaths of three imprisoned Baader-Meinhof terrorists. A sexy woman discovers just how hard it can be to find a worthwhile man in this outrageous romantic comedy. Rebecca (Jenny McCarthy) is a beautiful blonde who thinks she has it made with her hunky boyfriend, Richard (Victor Webster); however, when she comes home early one day and finds him in bed with another woman, she realizes that isn't quite the case. Devastated, Rebecca takes the advice of her friends Carrie (Kam Heskin), a half-bright actress, and Michelle (Carmen Electra), a racially confused beautician, and throws herself back into the dating game to prove to Richard that she can do better. However, there's a problem — Rebecca is a bit of a klutz, she keeps ending up with men who are either crazy or strange, and each date she goes on ends in disaster. Does Rebecca have any chance at either finding new love or winning Richard back? And is it possible her pal John (Eddie Kaye Thomas) might be interested in being more than just friends?. Featuring Audrey Tautou, Chiwetel Ejiofor, Sophie Okonedo, Benedict Norbert Wong, Sergi Lopez. Director Stephen Frears returns to the grittier themes of his earlier films for the urban thriller Dirty Pretty Things. Residing in London, the medically trained Okwe (Chiwetel Ejiofor) is a Nigerian immigrant working as a taxi driver and a hotel concierge, but he still lives on the edge of poverty. He shares a room with Senay (Amélie's Audrey Tautou making her English-language debut), a Turkish refugee who works as a maid at the hotel. As illegal immigrants, Okwe and Senay live in fear of being deported. One night, working at the front desk, Okwe receives a call from prostitute Juliette (Sophie Okonedo) to check a broken toilet, where he makes a horrifying discovery. He reports it to the manager Sneaky (Sergi Lopez), who blackmails Okwe into staying quiet about it. Okwe soon discovers the presence of a shady business operation that sends him into the seedy London underworld. Senay becomes lured in with hopes of being able to fund her escape to America. Lust is in the air on Harford Road and Sylvia Stickles, a grumpy, repressed middle-aged Baltimorean, doesn't like it. Though Sylvia's handsome husband Vaughn still has marital urges, his wife could not be less interested — she has more important things to do. Not only does Sylvia run the family's Pinewood Park and Pay convenience store, she's also responsible for watching over her exhibitionist daughter Caprice. A go-go dancer known to her adoring fans as Ursula Udders, Caprice and her stupendously enlarged breasts are currently under house arrest after several nude and disorderly violations. But Sylvia's world is turned upside down one day after suffering a concussion in a freak traffic accident. Sexy tow-truck driver Ray-Ray Perkins rushes to her aid, and the stricken Sylvia realizes he is no ordinary service man; he's a sexual healer who brings Sylvia's hidden cauldron of lust to the boiling point. Discoveries. America, Pennsylvania: Pennsylvania. Color. 60 mins. Age: 10-UP. Public performance. Video Released 2004. Produced by Bennett-Watt Entertainment. From the rolling forest-covered hills of rural Pennsylvania to the modern urban centers, Penn's sylvan, or Penn's woods, is the subject of the latest Discoveries.America program. Journey back in time through the cobbled streets of Philadelphia and uncover a wealth of national treasures - the liberty bell, Independence Hall and the U.S. Constitution to name a few. Nearby, Valley Forge puts the American Revolution into context at the new National Center for the American Revolution while Gettysburg continues to be an important historical shrine. Visit a small artist's studio in the woods where Wharton Esherick, an important American artist and sculptor, worked with wood and the studio he built is now a museum for his creations. Take a ride on down scenic back roads through Covered Bridges and past Painted Barns ("advertising barns"), which tell their own stories about early American workmanship. To the west, Pittsburgh, a city once known for its pollution, has changed its direction and is now vying to become one of the cleanest cities in America. Go inside their new convention center to see what makes a building 'green' and meet hundreds of rare and exotic birds at the National Aviary. Farming is a way of life and agriculture is still the most important industry in the state. Modern dairy farmers tend to hundreds of acres of crops with huge harvesting equipment while their Amish neighbors perform the same tasks the old fashioned way - using only horses and mules. From "red, white & blue" to "green", Pennsylvania in the 21st century is a remarkable contrast of cultures and lifestyles. Bennett-Watt Entertainment, Inc. (Bennett-Watt Entertainment, Inc.). DVD. Dr. Mabuse, the Gambler: Restored Authorized Edition (Dr. Mabuse, der Spieler) (1922). B&W. 270 mins. Video Released Jul. 2006. Directed by Fritz Lang. Featuring Rudolf Klein-Rogge. A truly legendary silent film, Dr. Mabuse, the Gambler had a major impact on the development of the crime thriller, building upon the work of the pioneering French film serialist Louis Feuillade (Les Vampires) and firmly establishing it as a significant film genre. This epic two-part tale was originally released as two separate films, respectively subtitled The Great Gambler and Inferno, and that format is reproduced here. The plot revolves around the pursuit of arch fiend Dr. Mabuse, a gambler, hypnotist, master of disguises and all-around criminal mastermind. Mabuse was the prototype for the sort of evil genius super-villains that would later become common in movies, whether it be in the James Bond pictures or in comic book adaptations like Superman and Batman. The film is dominated by the presence of Rudolf Klein-Rogge as Mabuse. A top German actor of the silent era, he is best known today for his performance as the mad scientist Rotwang in Lang's Metropolis. Kino on Video. DVD. (UPC: 7 3832904662 0) $39.95.

Dr. Orloff's Monster. (1964). Horror Films. Foreign Films—Spain. B&W. 85 mins. (Spanish, Dubbed: English). Agnes Spaak, Joseph Raven. Dr. Orloff, an elderly researcher, is dying before his life's work is done. He wonders of his colleague, a burly, bearded professor, will be able to carry on. The professor is uncertain: while their "creation" survives - it breathes, & "its circulation magnetically is perfection" - they have been unable to induce it to move. Orloff reveals to the professor his secret theory, formulated by lengthy observation: by experimenting with ultrasonic sounds, perhaps the creature can be induced into movement & action. Orloff's theory quickly proves correct. Only problem is, the trusting, well-intentioned doctor does not figure that his colleague, though a genius, is also an arrogant, philandering madman. Video Yesteryear. VHS. (Order #: 1826) $24.95.

Dr. Petiot. (1990). Drama. Foreign Films—France. Color. 120 mins. NR. (French, Subtitled: English). Video Released Aug. 1994. Michel Serrault. Directed by Christian De Chalonge. Dr. Petiot is the macabre tale of the infamous real-life World War II-era French physician who lured desperate Jews into his private crematorium under the pretense of smuggling them to freedom - while he coldly & cleverly destroyed them & stole their belongings. From the moment Petiot, watching a vampire movie, leaps into the screen to show us how monsters really are, the film creates the classic visual mood of a ghoulish horror movie. Drug Wars: Up Against the Stem. (2003). Color. 23 mins. CC NR. Video Released 2003. Several teens are in drug treatment counseling talking about how their marijuana use spiraled out of control. They tell stories about being kicked out of school, losing the trust of friends and family, selling possessions that were important to them, missing out on activities like sports, and getting in trouble with the law. In all the teens? stories we hear how they never expected to suffer all the consequences of marijuana use when they first decided to try it. Instead, they were surprised to find how desperate they became in their need to get high. The teens? stories are integrated with the scientific side of marijuana use. Eric Martin, a national expert on drug abuse, explains how marijuana use can cause permanent damage to the brain, heart, lungs, and immune system. By describing changes in growing techniques, he also presents a convincing case that marijuana is no longer a natural substance. Advantage Source, Inc. VHS. $89.00.

Dude, Where's the Party? (2004). Color. 110 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2003. Directed by Benny Mathews. Featuring Kal Penn, Prem Shah, Sunil Malhotra. Before leaving India for college in Houston, Hari (Sunil Malhotra) consults an astrologer, who tells him that he'll meet the woman of his dreams there, that her name will begin with a "P," and that she'll fall from the sky. Hari moves in with friends of the family, the Bakshis, and meets Mo (Kal Penn of American Desi), their slacker son. Mo is a fully assimilated ABCD (American Born Confused Desi), and while he's proud to be Indian, he's ashamed of his socially inept FOB (Fresh Off the Boat) "cousin," who wears clashing outfits, puts coconut oil in his hair, and speaks with a heavy accent. At school, Hari meets Priya (Tina Cherian), a ditzy beauty who literally falls into his lap. Hari is quickly convinced that Priya is the girl the astrologer told him about, and he offers to tutor her in math. Mo is smitten with Janvi (Serena Varghese), a student filmmaker. She's making a video about what it means to be South Asian in America, and Mo invites her to one of the "Desi Fever" parties he promotes. The evening turns into a disaster when Janvi films Ray (Prem Shah), the radio personality who runs the party, rudely kicking out an FOB, Shyam (co-screenwriter Sunil Thakkar), and Ray smashes her tape. While Hari is determined to help Mo win back Janvi, Mo won't even tell Hari about the next exclusive party he's promoting, which Priya is sure to attend. Lion's Gate Publishing. DVD. $17.98.

Duplex. (2003). Color. 89 mins. CC PG13. (Dubbed: French. Subtitled: Spanish). Video Released 2003. Directed by Danny DeVito. Featuring Ben Stiller, Harvey Fierstein, Amber Valletta, Drew Barrymore. Synopsis Just how far would you go to have the home of your dreams all to yourself? A couple start asking themselves that very question in this dark comedy directed by Danny DeVito. Alex (Ben Stiller) and Nancy (Drew Barrymore) are a young couple who are happy and successful, but lack one thing that they truly want — the perfect home in Manhattan. Alex and Nancy think they may have found just the place they've been looking for when they discover the bottom half of a beautiful old duplex has opened up. While the couple are delighted with their new flat, they discover it has one major disadvantage they hadn't counted on — their upstairs neighbor, Mrs. Connelly (Eileen Essel), an elderly woman who soon makes their lives a living hell. Persuading Mrs. Connelly to move is fruitless, since she has a long term rent-controlled lease, and as things become more and more difficult, Alex and Nancy begin to wonder if she won't go away on her own, perhaps a more drastic (and permanent) solution may be in order. Buena Vista Home Video. DVD. $29.99; VHS.

Directed by Edwin Carewe. Score by Philip Carli, Hugo Riesenfeld. In the quiet Acadian village of Grand-Pre, Nova Scotia, lives the beautiful & beloved Evangeline. She is betrothed by Gabriel, but before they can marry, France & England declare war. The Acadians, bound by allegiance to England but by ties of kinship to France, refuse to take up arms. As a result, they are forcefully deported (most ending up in Louisiana). The British set fire to the village as the Acadian men are herded aboard a man-o'-war. Evangeline must set sail for unknown lands. Wandering the American wilderness, she begins the search for her lost love. Milestone Film & Video. VHS. (Order #: Mile 070, UPC: 7 8414800703 8) $29.95.

Everything You Always Wanted to Know about Sex but Were Afraid to Ask. Based on a book by David Reuben. (1972). Comedy. Color. 89 mins. R. Woody Allen, John Carradine, Lou Jacobi, Louise Lasser, Anthony Quayle, Tony Randall, Lynn Redgrave, Burt Reynolds, Gene Wilder. Directed by Woody Allen. Screenplay by Woody Allen. Score by Mundell Lowe. In one vignette, Allen plays a medieval court jester who's as hard-up for punch lines as he is for the queen! And when he "slips" the queen a love potion, he discovers that while he's unlocked the key to her heart, the lock to her chastity belt may prove more difficult. Other episodes entail Gene Wilder's woolly love affair with a sheep, & Lou Jacobi's desire to share all his wife's interests, including her wardrobe! John Carradine delights as the "mad scientist" whose experiments in "breast enlargement" turn out to be larger than life! Jack Barry hosts a wacky TV show called "What's My Perversion" & Allen, Tony Randall & Burt Reynolds take us inside the human body for a rather unorthodox view of sex - from the inside out. Directed by Sam Raimi. Produced by Robert Tapert. Screenplay by Sam Raimi. This is a special limited edition of the film packaged in a facsimile of the movie's notorious Necronomicon Ex Mortis—The Book of the Dead, featuring an outer cover of latex "skin" and interior booklets featuring production illustrations and making-of information. The DVD itself features the same two commentary tracks from the Elite edition (one by star Bruce Campbell ("Ash"), the other by writer/director Sam Raimi and producer Rob Tapert, plus new documentaries and outtakes not featured on the Elite edition: "Fanalysis" Campbell's video diary of life as a cult movie icon, and "Discovering Evil Dead" a documentary tracing the low-budget classic's history. Note: this transfer of the film is matted to 1.85:1 widescreen, supervised by Campbell with Raimi's blessing, to reflect the theatrical release aspect ratio; this differentiates it from the open matte full frame transfer on the Elite edition, which actually reveals more information on the top and bottom of the frame. Anchor Bay Entertainment, Inc. DVD. (UPC: 13131190496) $49.98.

Evil Dead II: Dead by Dawn. (1987). Horror Films. Color. 84 mins. Video Released Sep. 1987. Bruce Campbell, Sarah Berry, Dan Hicks, Kassie Wesley. Directed by Sam Raimi. The sole survivor of the first film returns to the isolated cabin in the woods & unleashes supernatural demons. Comic-horror sequel, unrated. Live Home Video. VHS. (Order #: 15212, UPC: 2848515212) $19.98.

Evil Dead II: Dead by Dawn. (1987). Color. 84 mins. NR. Video Released Jul. 2002. Bruce Campbell, Ted Raimi, Sarah Berry, Dan Hicks, Denise Bixler, Richard Domeier. Directed by Sam Raimi. Screenplay by Sam Raimi. "The sequel to the Ultimate Experience in grueling terror" (as the end credits proclaim), this film hastily recreates/condenses the action from the first film within the first ten minutes, then continues the premise with great goofy gory, gusto, as Ash, the last survivor from the first film, battles a variety of demonic attacks (including one from his own recalcitrant hand!). As the nightmare continues, Ash transforms from the mealy-mouthed nebbish of the first film into a hardened, chainsaw-handed slinger of supernatural justice (while still somehow remaining slow-witted, boorish, and cowardly). The demonic force will not let up and even with the arrival of three more hapless souls to the cabin for it to vent its rage on, Ash absorbs a tremendous amount of (frequently funny) physical abuse. This film is an insane collision of Night of the Living Dead, The Exorcist, and the Three Stooges, with a truly bizarre ending. This DVD release contains an anamorphic transfer (1.85:1) and supplements including a behind-the-scenes documentary and an irreverent audio commentary by star Campbell, director Raimi, co-writer Scott Spiegel, and makeup effects artist Greg Nicotero. Farenheit 9/11. (2004). Color. 122 mins. CC R. Video Released 2004. Directed by Michael Moore. Featuring George Walker Bush, Bill Clinton, Britney Spears, Ben Affleck. Directed by Michael Moore, whose aura of controversy only grew after his Oscar acceptance speech at the 2003 Academy Awards, Fahrenheit 9/11, like Moore's Bowling For Columbine and Roger & Me, promises to expose the corporate wrongdoings and big-money scandals perpetrated by America's financial elite. This movie, however, looks beyond the inner echelons of General Motors and Lockheed Martin in hopes of outing the evildoers in the White House, particularly in regards to the 43rd President of the United States, George W. Bush. In addition to criticizing the administration's handling of the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on the Pentagon and World Trade Center, Moore digs deep into the surprising relationship with the Bin Laden family held by both Bush administrations, and questions whether or not potential Saudi involvement with the attacks has been ignored. As Fahrenheit 9/11's Cannes Film Festival debut approached, marking only the second time in 48 years that a documentary has been included among the festival's main competition, Miramax's parent company Disney announced it would not be distributing the film due to its partisan nature, and, according to Moore, out of trepidation that the Florida-based Goliath's multi-million-dollar tax breaks might be negatively affected by Florida Governor Jeb Bush, whose review within Fahrenheit 9/11 is less than favorable Award(s): Cannes International Film Festival Golden Palm, 2003 Sony Pictures Home Entertainment. Fat Albert. (2004). Color. 93 mins. CC PG. (Dubbed: Spanish, French). Theatrical Release. Video Released 2004. Directed by Joel Zwick. Featuring Kenan Thompson, Bill Cosby, Omarion Grandberry, Raven Symone, Kyla Pratt. Doris (Kyla Pratt) is a teenager who doesn't fit in with most of her classmates at school, has been depressed since the death of her grandfather, and is disturbed by her foster sister's willingness to remake herself in order to be popular. One of Doris' few solaces comes from watching reruns of the animated television series Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids, and one day while watching the show she starts to cry, with a tear dropping into her remote. The tear draws big-hearted (and just plain big) Fat Albert (Kenan Thompson) from the animated universe into Doris' real world in hopes of cheering her up and helping her deal with her problems. As Fat Albert and his pals — Rudy (Shedrack Anderson II!), Bucky (Alphonso McAuley), Mushmouth (Jermaine Williams), Weird Harold (Aaron A. Frazier), Dumb Donald (Marques B. Houston), and Bill (Keith D. Robinson) — adapt to the three-dimensional world and try to teach Doris to believe in herself, they learn that traveling back to the animated world is harder than they thought, which becomes alarming when they start to fade away. The real world also poses some new dilemmas for Fat Albert when he falls in love with Doris' foster sister, Lauri (Dania Ramirez). Twentieth Century Fox Entertainment. DVD. $29.98; VHS. $19.95.

Fool's Gold. (2008). Color. 112 mins. PG13. (Subtitled: French, Spanish). Video Released 2002. Kate Hudson, Matthew McConaughey. Directed by Andy Tennant. In 1828 gold was found near Dahlonega; Cherokee Indians were forbidden to dig for it; they were rounded up and force-marched to the West in the 'Trail of Tears' into exile; many of them died. A few managed to escape by hiding in the mountains or marrying whites. Their descendants still live in Dahlonega which has reinvented itself as a heritage town, living off the history of the gold and the Cherokees. In a compelling and humorous portrait of life in small town America, filmed a month after September 11th, Fool's Gold peels away the layers of affluent colour-co-ordinated shops, museums and big cars to reveal a community where people like Myra and Thomas live out life untouched by the prosperity of tourism or by the 'big' events outside; who struggle with poverty but share the little they have with others.
